GOLD LADEN SHIPS ARRIVING

Millions of Yellow Metal Flowing into New York and Large Amounts Shipped into Interior to Alleviate Conditions.

New York, Nov. 8.—The stream of surplus gold pouring into New York has not been halted here to meet local demands, but is being allowed to flow through the financial arteries of the United States and relieve the needs of agriculture and industry.

Gold importers state that nearly all of the $21,000,000 which already has reached here will soon find its way to every quarter of the country. Nearly $12,000,000 was shipped to the interior this week.

Gold has been shipped from here to Chicago in such large amounts, it is understood in local banking circles, that the issuance of circulating bank script in Chicago possibly may not be necessary. Part of the $12,000,000 arriving on the Lusitania and part of the $25,000,000 yet to come will be expressed immediately to out-of-town banks.

Never in the history of New York finance, according to gold importers, has there been so much money engaged abroad by out-of-town banks as at present. "There need be no fears," said a member of one of the largest gold importing firms tonight, "that there will be a cessation of gold imports because of the increase in the discount rate of the Banks of England and Germany. This increase was not made for the purpose of stopping gold from coming to this country, as is popularly supposed, but to strengthen their own position by drawing gold from other centers.

"There is a heavy outward movement of American commodities and until they are paid for we can demand our payments in gold and it can not be denied. The gold that we are importing is coming in every form, although principally in American double eagles. I know that within a year the Russian imperial treasury had $150,000,000 in American double eagles hoarded in its vaults, while the Bank of England has millions of dollars of American gold coin."

Figures compiled today by New York banks show that banking centers throughout the United States have drawn nearly $12,000,000 from this city within the week. Of this sum about $5,000,000 was sent through the subtreasury.

New York, Nov. 8.—The leading New York banks were exerting themselves today to meet the demands of their country correspondents and depositors for currency. They declare that the suggestions coming from several western sources that they are not meeting legitimate demands are unfounded and that they are, on the contrary, taking every practicable measure to aid the west and south. One of these large banks, with several thousand correspondents, has depleted its reserve by about a quarter during the last few weeks to supply currency where it is most needed, and has made large shipments to banks in San Antonio, Galveston, Memphis, Mobile, Atlanta and other Southern points.

The country banks have been allowed to draw down their balances to a point which affords in many cases hardly more than enough to meet the drafts sold in the ordinary course of business. They have brought paper for rediscount to their New York correspondents in large amounts and the principal difficulty of the New York banks has come from the demand for currency to be shipped against the balance created by these rediscounts.

As these rediscounts have been accommodations and have not brought a cent of currency to the discounting banks, they do not feel that they should be called upon to supply currency in large amounts under such conditions.

It is not usual, except in special cases, to ship all that is asked, but about one-half is usually shipped, the proportion varying according to the cash strength of the bank calling for coin or as the demand is for legitimate purposes. Special favor is shown to the small interior banks where there is no clearing house, because it is realized that they are not in a position to count upon co-operation and the use of clearing house certificates, as in the case of communities having a number of strong institutions.

REPUBLICAN DISCORD GROWS

Defeated Applicants for Office Sore at "Rough Rider" Influence--U. S. Marshals Ordered to Fire Democratic Deputies--Frantz and Hainer for Seats in Congress.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 9.—Republican leaders, returning last night from Washington, D. C., where they have been participating in the campaign for federal appointments, state emphatically that Governor Frank Frantz intends entering the race for congress in the First Oklahoma district, next year, against Bird S. McGuire of Pawnee, the only republican elected to congress from the new state.

Judge Bayard T. Hainer of Perry, one of the defeated candidates for federal judge, will move to Tulsa immediately and will enter the congressional race in the Third district.

Charles E. Hunter who made the losing fight for the republicans, notwithstanding his appointment as clerk of the federal court, thinks he will remain state chairman, claiming to have taken the matter up with President Roosevelt, who told him to accept the clerkship. Hunter says he told the president he would not accept, if he has to resign as chairman. Hunter's political friends believe, however, the civil service commission will compel him to resign one of the two places.

President Roosevelt called both John R. Abernathy of Guthrie, and Grosvenor Porter of Ardmore on the carpet and told them to "fire" all democrats in their employ as deputy United States marshals, to contribute to the party campaign funds and to look to Charles E. Hunter as their political advisor. Both Abernathy and Porter were criticised severely by the president for employing democrats.

Before the Indian Territory politicians left Washington, an anti-Frantz-Hunter combination was formed with the declaration that henceforward the "Rough Rider" organization could get no help from that side of the state.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Gov. Frantz of Oklahoma says that he does not take much account of the kicking which the disappointed ones who sought appointments in Oklahoma are doing. "The man who cries because he has hurt his toe gets little sympathy," said the governor.

It develops that there is a great deal of soreness on the part of those whose friends were turned down for appointments. The president did not appoint a candidate who did not have the indorsement of Frantz and of Hunter. The Rough Rider influence in the persons of these two was all-powerful, and threats are made of "swift and terrible vengeance at the first opportunity." The opportunity will come when the republicans of Oklahoma go to choose delegates to the next republican national convention. It is openly stated that the state shall not send a Roosevelt delegation or one which will support an administration candidate.

Masonic Building at Ardmore.

Ardmore, I. T., Nov. 9.—Plans and specifications for a six-story modern brick and stone office building to be used by the Masonic fraternities of this city have been received. The new structure will be one of the most modern in the new state and will be equipped with air shafts whereby air currents may be changed every thirty minutes during the day if necessary. The ground floor will be used for stores, the next two for offices, and the fifth and six for lodge purposes.

The Masons contemplate beginning work on the new building either late this fall or early next spring.

District Judges to Meet.

Guthrie, Ok., Nov. 9—A call has been issued for a meeting of the District Judges of Oklahoma in Guthrie on the first session day of the supreme court. At this meeting terms of the district courts will be agreed upon. Several weeks ago the Supreme court met here informally, and each of the Judges agreed to work out the terms of the lower courts in their districts. A special term of the district courts in all counties will probably be decided upon.

BLEW SISTERS BRAINS OUT

The 16-year-old son of W. W. Manning, a farmer residing one and one-half miles southeast of center, accidentally shot and instantly killed his little 4-year-old sister Saturday morning.

Such is the sad intelligense Robert Vaughn, a near neighbor, brought to town.

The boy was in the house tinkering with a shot gun, while his sister sat near by on a bed. Suddenly the weapon, a muzzle loading shotgun, was discharged, the contents striking the little one in the head and literally blowing her brains out.

By chance Mr. Vaughn arrived in a few minutes and found the family in great distress, the father being away in Oklahoma.

Mr. Manning has been reached by 'phone, but can not get get home before Sunday.

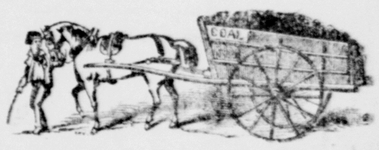

Posse Pursuing Robbers.

Tulas, I. T., Nov. 8.—With bloodhounds a posse is in search of three robbers who fired the home of William Nailer at Keifer, south of Tulsa, last night, and after assaulting Mrs. Nailer, who was alone in the house, forced her to give up $40 she had in her possession. When Nailor returned home he found his wife lying unconscious on the floor. She is in a critical condition.

THE FARMER AND FINANCIAL AGITATION.

The wisdom and common sense evidenced by the farmer who diversifies his crops were perhaps never before so well demonstrated as at present, says the Dallas News. The extraordinary weather conditions that have prevailed during the present crop year, the effort being made by a large number of farmers throughout the South to hold their cotton for higher prices than those at present prevailing, and the exigencies precipitated by the recent more or less stressful financial situation, have served to emphasize the independence of the farmer who uses prudence and good judgment in the diversification of his crops. He is independent to a great extent of weather conditions, for the reason that, if they are not such as are suitable to the growth of one of his crops they are suitable to another. He is independent of conditions that would otherwise force him to sell his cotton at any price he can get, for the reason that he has produced almost everything he eats especially bread and meat, and doesn't need to sell his cotton in order to get money to buy it. He is independent of financial stress for the reason that he is not in imperative need, having produced, as all Southern farmers can, all those things which are absolutely necessities to his existence.

If he has raised his meat, he can keep the bale of cotton that it would be necessary to sell to pay for meat he would have to buy. If he has raised plenty of corn he can keep the bale or two of cotton he would have had to sell to pay for corn. If he has raised poultry and eggs, butter and honey, he can hold the cotton that it would have been necessary for him to have sold in order to pay for clothing and incidental debts he would have owed had he not possessed the chickens, cows and bees.

In other words, the gospel of crop diversification as preached by The News for the last fifteen years is again demonstrated to be true. Every year serves to accentuate its advantage, even its necessity, to the farmer who wishes to be independent of financial perturbation or political agitation. He can sit down under his own vine and fig tree, cross his legs, light his pipe an dtell politicians and financiers to go hang. If there is any man under the canopy who is in a position to do this it is the farmer who grows those things which are most needful to the welfare of himself and family—the farmer who diversifies.

Why should he be frightened because wheat goes up and flour is higher. He has wheat to sell and flour of his own? Why should he tear his hair in distress when he reads that meat products have been advanced in price? He has hogs and yearlings to sell and meat in his smokehouse. Why should he wail and gnash his teeth because the tariff and other things have caused the price of clothing to go higher? He has wool for sale.

In the face of these facts it seems almost incredible that any farmer could be found who would still persist in following the old methods of the one-crop cotton farmer. Raise cotton, to be sure, but do not hazard your financial success, your children's education, and the contentment and happiness of yourself and family on cotton alone, as much as to say, "I stake my all on cotton. If cotton goes up, I'll go up; if cotton goes down, I will, too."

The climate of the Southern States is too well adapted to the production of an almost limitless variety of crops its soils are too fertile and its farmers too sensible to be longer chained to the chariot wheels of King Cotton, or King Anybody Else. Diversify.

FIRST IN FORTY-FOUR YEARS.

The president has announced that on November 16 he will sign the Oklahoma constitution and proclaim the state, Oklahoma being the forty-sixth in the order of admission. Referring to this assurance a writer in the New York World says. "Mr. Roosevelt does not indorse the very radical constitution of Oklahoma, but his duty under the act of congress is to admit the new state when satisfied that it has provided a government 'republican in form.' He will hand the state over to democratic officials already chosen. Political and sectional considerations have always ruled in the admission of state. At first southern and northern states were admitted in pairs or alternately, first of each joining the union up to 1821. In that year Missouri's admission marked the movement westward. The longest gap in state-making ended when Arkansas was admitted fifteen years later. Michigan followed. Then Florida and Texas were offset by Iowa and Wisconsin. Wisconsin in 1848 brought the total up to eight northern and nine southern states admitted, and Texas had the right to divide into four states, a right which will probably never be claimed. With 1850 began the admission of debatable states. California was safely enither southern nor northern. Minnesota and Oregon gave the admitted northern states a majority of one; Kansas, admitted January 29, 1861, had been claimed by the slavery and anti-slavery men, and the latter had won. West Virginia was admitted as a war measure in 1863. Since then no state has been admitted south of the line defined by the Missouri compromise. Oklahoma will be the first in forty-four years."

TELLS READERS HOW.

To Make the Best Remedy Right at Home at Little Cost.

To make up enough of the "Dandelion treatment," which is claimed to be relieving nearly every sufferer who uses it for backache, kidney complaint, sore, weak bladder and rheumatism; get from any good prescription pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon and three ounces Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

Those who have tried it claim that it acts gently but thoroughly on the kidneys, relieving backache and bladder trouble and urinary difficulties almost instantly. Many cases of rheumatism are known to have been relieved within a few days, the pain and swelling diminishing with each dose.

A well-known local druggist, who is in a position to know asserts that this prescription, wherever it becomes known, always ruins the sale of the numerous patent medicine rheumatism cures, kidney cures, etc. It is a recipe which the majority of patent medicine manufacturers, and even certain physicians dislike to see published. Few cases, indeed, which will fail to fully yield to its peculiarly soothing and healing influence. Being composed of common everyday ingredients, which can be had from any druggist, it makes up a good, honest and harmless remedy and at nominal cost.

Trial Catarrh treatments are being mailed out free, on request, by Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. These tests are proving to the people—without a penny's cost—the great value of this scientific prescription known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. Sold by G. M. Ramsey.

Christmas Shopping.

Do not delay Christmas shopping until the last few days; others will do that, and if you do, you are very apt to find yourself very uncomfortably "one of a crowd."

In giving presents, do not go beyond your means, thereby giving the gift an appearance of barter and exchange. Many persons prefer a pretty, useless gift to a pretty useful one. Just something to show that you hold your friend in remembrance, is best. Only a selfish person will misunderstand.

Try to avoid all appearance of "shop," unless you are quite sure you understand your friend's taste, and the need o fthe moment. This is not always easy to do. As an instance, a lady who writes a great deal, but does all her work with a typewriter, using her pen only for her signature, showed me a box full of penwipers of all kinds, sizes and costs, and enqual number of blotting pads, many of them very elaborate affairs. Another freind has something over a dozen fountain pens, while another has a drawer full of paper cutters and pencil trays, not one of them, while costing considerable, is suited to her needs, being chosen by persons who do not know enough about a "writing woman's work" to discriminate in the matter.

Many things, being left until a belated shopping, are bought in desperation, and neither the giver nor the receiver is satisfied with them. If you are hurrie dor worried, or do not know exactly what you want to give, or what would suit your friend, there is always one sure refuge, and that is the pretty picture card, or the postal with your good wishes, inscribed thereon, and, better still, a pleasantly worded letter, sending your cordial good wishes and assurances of continued regard.

For those who are far from you, the good homey letter is the best of all. And it costs so little, compared to its value to the receiver.—Ex.

When the Stomach, Heart or Kidney nerves get weak, then these organs always fail. Don't drug the stomach nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is simply a makeshift. The word million is a much used word now. Millions are coming to this country in gold, millions are being coined and still more millions are being realesed for circulation by a new ruling of the treasury. And this does not take into account the millions that people are depositing in banks to prove their confidence in the banking system, crude though it yet is. These many millions should be enough to make the best and the banner times this country ever saw.—State Capital.

A tickling cough from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even to very young babes. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub, furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, an dheals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the Doctor uses "The Sacred Herb." Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. Sold by G. M. Ramsey.

Girl Is Victim of Fiend.

Sapulpa, Nov. 8.—Kate Keneclar, a 12-year-old white girl living about two and a half miles from Sapulpa was criminally assaulted late last night and the authorities there are now searching for the man who committed the crime. The girl will die.

She was discovered gagged and bound, alone in the house about midnight and was in a dying condition. No one was around at the time the deed was done. There is absolutely no clue to the assailant.

Early this morning a telephone message was received by the Muskogee police asking that the bloodhounds be sent to Sapulpa at once.

CHRIST REVIVAL CLOSES.

Many Brought to Christ, and Marked Spiritual Uplift Results.

After a totally successful revival meeting, which lasted nearly three weeks Evangelist Burke and his singer, Prof. Ferguson, ended their labors in Ada Friday night with a glorious service.

The topic of the farewell sermon was "Gratitude." The revivalist graphically enumerated the manifold things men have to be grateful for; how meager are the thanks in the average prayer—always full of blessings asked, but devoid of gratitude for blessings already received. At the close of the service a number came forward for prayer, and made a profession of faith.

In all some 36 people have made professions during the meeting and signified their intention of joining some church. Many of these are strong influential men who were never before reached by spiritual appeals. In this, perhaps, lies Rev. Burke's chief power—arousing the better natures of grown men, with all of whose weaknesses and temptations he can sympathize.

These evangelists carry with them the loving esteem and the prayers of all Ada. On Sunday they begin a three-weeks union revival at Stigler. After that Rev. Burke goes on a lecture tour, later will hold meetings in northern states and in Canada.

FOR LAW AND ORDER.

If you are a law-abiding citizen you will take pains to attend that law and order mass meeting at the First Methodist church Sunday at 3 p. m.

This meeting is not called because lawlessness has been running riot in Ada, nor because the peace officers have been neglectful of their duty; nor yet because it is feared the officers soon to succeed the federal officials will be lax in doing their duty. So well is it known that it is a truism that officers in no community can keep it clean and orderl ywithout the hearty endorsement and active co-operation of the private citizens.

From the present indications the lawless element will make a desperate effort to wedge in and assert themselves with the coming of statehood taking advantage of every conceivable technicality, every imaginable legal flaw.

The incoming officers welcome the co-operation of citizens in the undertaking to start off Ada and all Pontotoc county clean and law-abiding, and to keep it so.

Go to that meeting Sunday and lend your cordial support

Morning Joy.

Services at First Christian Tomorrow.

Sunday school at the usual hour, 9:45; communion service 10:45; preaching 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; baptismal service, 11:45 a. m.

At the morning service the members of the local congregation are urged to be present to extend the hand of fellowship to the new members who have come in during the recent revival and also the new arrivals in our city who were members of the Christian church at other places are urged to be present and take membership. We will take pleasure in administering the ordinance of Scriptural baptism to any of the new converts at the close of the morning service, whether they join the Christian church or not. The individual being free to go to the church of his choice. E. L. KIRTLEY, Minister.

A Word From Uncle Dick.

City Marshal Uncle Dick Couch asks the News to announce to his friends, who were not fortunate enough to be in attendance at the revival meeting last night, that he then professed religion and will be baptised at the Christian church tomorrow (Sunday) morning. He asks all his friends to be in attendance. Uncle Dick says his conversion is a "sure go," that he means every word he says, and that in the future he will ever endeavor to live a thoroughly consecrated life. May he succeed in the fullest is the News' wish.

The People who put Prices Down.

Good Saturday Sights.

Notwithstanding the panicky times, Ada's streets had a busy Saturday aspect today, indicative of general prosperity and confidence.

There was no small amount of cotton marketed, and a deal of shopping among the stores.

Did you ever observe the number of fine teams that are driven into Ada? On one of the prominent corners, in a small space 5 splendid spans of mules were observed this morning, hitched to farmers' cotton wagons. There is no better index of a farmer's thrift than the type and condition of stock which he drives.

Change the color of the old garments to look like new. Berry will do it for you.

To the Churches and Public.

The members of the Presbyterian church extend their thanks to all the churches and the public fo rtheir co-operation in the revival and especially so to the Baptist and Methodists for the use of their houses of worship. The meeting has been a blessing and a spiritual up-lift to all the churches. This meeting is an example of preaching Christ instead of denominationalism. The world needs Christ the Savior more than anything else. Our hearts go with Brother Burke and the singer to their next meeting.

Services at the Presbyterian church Sunday, both morning and evening. Subject Sunday morning, "Be a Good Soldier of Jesus Christ."

Today's Cotton Market.

Unusual sluggishness characterized Saturday's market. Spot cotton prices remained unchanged; New York 10.80 New Orleans 10¾. Futures advanced from 2 to 5 points.

New Orleans, Nov. 9.—Since the shipment of cash in sufficient quantity to transact the cotton business through the payment of actual currency for each bale purchased cannot be available without draining both Europe and American reserves and since the exchange markets are probably destined to remain on a clearing house basis for some time to come, the speculative short cannot see just where the sweeping drain in options which he has been counting on, is to come from. Consequently the bearish attitude of the rings yesterday night, with good show of logic, be interpreted to mean that somebody is working for a temporary decline on which to cover troublesome contracts, in any event actual cotton shorts, who have recently witnessed a potential strengthening of spot basis at a time when financial depression appealed most strongly to the constitutional bear, will hardly be found in the ranks of the seller until the spot situation shall have undergone a radical change. The demand for spot cotton at the ports is now apparently greater than the supply. Interior merchants have been free sellers and the stocks are relatively small. Farmers, as a rule, do not care for checks and script on which they cannot draw checks. Therefore, farmers are not sell ing cotton cotton. Under such conditions depletion of port stocks and of supplies held by interior merchants is only a question of a little time unless general relief comes.

EDUCATION IN NEW STATE.

By Frederic J. Haskin in Dallas News.

Oklahoma City, Ok., Nov. 6.—Oklahoma believes in schools. It comes into the union offering educational advantages to its boys and girls which are surpassed by but few of the older states. Its educational system is already developed to a high degree and plans have been made and money provided to further increase the efficiency of the free institutions, from kindergarten to university. Taxes do not alarm the Oklahoman when the revenues are to be expended for schools, for he is a liberal spender. The little town of Perkins, for instance, holds a school meeting each July. Every taxpayer and patron of the schools, man or woman, may vote. In the last twelve years that district has always voted a school tar of 20 mills on the $1. This is the highest levy permitted by the Territorial laws. In all these twelve years there has never been one vote against the proposition to go the limit. The new constitution limits the school tax levy to 17 mills, and many votes were cast against statehood on that account. As the rate of assessment will be raised under statehood, however, the school revenues will not suffer.

The federal government gave the Territory of Oklahoma two sections in each township, or one-twentieth of all the land, for school purposes. It has also given a great deal of land for the support of the public educational institutions which rank above the High school, so that more than one-sixteenth of the old Territory of Oklahoma is held for school purposes. This amounts to over 3,000,000 acres. If it were sold now it would produce about $50,000,000. In the Indian Territory portion of the new state the government could not, in justice to the Indians, reserve the lands for school purposes. Congress, however, appropriated $5,000,000 in cash in lieu of the school lands and the new state will start out with that much cash school fund. The Oklahoma common school lands are leased for tarming and grazing, and now produce about $600,000 a year. Under statehood these lands may be sold, the resident lessor having the preference. The million acres held for the colleges have not yet been leased and they will add materially to the annual income.

The university of Oklahoma at Norman has more than 800 students this year, while the three state normal schools have 2,500, the University Preparatory school has over 400 and the two Agricultural and Mechanical Colleges, one for whites and one for negroes, have another thousand. Collegiate institutions not under Territorial control have nearly 2,000 students. All of this is exclusive of the Indian schools in both section of the new state.

The City high school at Oklahoma City has 750 pupils. Two years ago it had less than 500. The building which it could not fill five years ago is now so crowded that two school days are allowed to each calendar day and half the pupils attend in the forenoon and the others in the afternoon. A new High school building to cost a quarter of a million dollars, is on the cards and will be built next year.

Woe unto the teacher of geography in that High school if he knows not his business! For in the classes every state in the union east of the Mississippi is represented, and only ten states in the union are absent. The teachers of the public schools of the city come from twenty-eight different states, not to mention two European countries. Even the kindergartens are traveled and they demand cosmopolitan advantages.

"The Oldest Inhabitant."

The oldest native born inhabitant of Oklahoma City, Miss Bessie Land. She is 18 and pretty, and is planning for the best effects in white gowns for a day next June, when she will be graduated. The "oldest inhabitant" is the label we stick under a mental picture of a bent old man withlong white beard. Their mental pictures are different here. Miss Land was born in Oklahoma City just a few weeks after the first grand rush. But it is rather novel to hear the oldest inhabitants of a flourishing city say: "Our town is the best in the world, but we will have a hundred thousand population by the time I am 21 years old."

The new constitution requires that the elements of agriculture, horticulture, stock feeding and domestic science shall be taught in the common schools. Free kindergartens are to be required in all towns of more than 2,500 population. The high schools already have extensive courses in commercial education and an Oklahoma High school graduate knows how to write short hand, manipulate a typewriter and keep books. Modern languages are required in the courses of most high schools and the tendency everywhere is to accentuate the practical in education.

At Guthrie there is a model county High school which will be copied by other counties throughout the state. Of its 400 students, more than 200 are country boys and girls. Indeed, this school gives as much attention to the country pupils as it possibly can. Its head master, Snowden Parlette, came from Kansas by way of Harvard. He is a man with ideas and knows how to work. He has obtained light work for more than fifty country boys and girls that will enable them to pay their board while they are in school. From this High school a pupil may enter any of the western and central universities on certificate. In equipment and scope this High school will compare favorably with any Eastern school in a county of its size, while in attendance there are few Eastern counties which can show so good a record in proportion. Township high schools, such as are maintained in states like Indiana, are, of course, a long way i nthe future, but Oklahoma will see to it that the boy and the girl in the country have equal educational advan tages with the town-bred youths.

These county high schools have all the "trimmings" that small colleges can boast of—athletics of all kinds, school and class publications which appear monthly, "annuals" just like a real college and al lthe rest, except Greek letter fraternities. There was a start toward their introduction in the country and town high schools, but democratic Oklahoma frowned on the caste feature of these secret selective organizations and they were abolished so far as official recognition is concerned.

In Oklahoma City the public schools take the children at5 years old and keep them fo rthirteen years, one year in the kindergarten and then through the usual twelve grades. Every building except the High school is new and of the most modern sanitary construction. The school system is the pride of every Oklahoman. It was built up during the last few years of great prosperity and Superintendent Taylor a Kentucky mountaineer by the way, is looked upon as one of the greatest public benefactors in the city. It is interesting to note that his two predecessors were also from that same mountain region, a section which is not generally credited with producing great educators, although famous for organizers. Ed Vaught, a Tennessee mountaineer, and I. N. Holcomb, a Kentucky mountaineer, organized this public school system.

Schools Then and Now.

In Indian Territory the peculiar tribal governments have prevented the advancement of the school system to the point attained by the Territory of Oklahoma. Until two years ago there were no free schools for white children except in the incorporated towns. Then congress gave money to increase the tribal school capacity and to provide for the attendance of children of non-citizens of the five nations. The tribes have maintained good district schools and seminaries for the Indians as well as the negroes. Each of the five nations, Cherokee, Creek, Choctaw Chickasaw and Seminole, has had a system of district day schools and of central boarding schools, which will be adapted under statehood to the system of district schools and county High schools. The Indian mission schools have been a poent factor for good for more than sixty years, and they will continue under the new regime without interruption.

In the incorporated town of Indian Territory the schools have been organized along progressive lines and are as good as those of Oklahoma. Under statehood the university, normal and technical colleges and preparatory schools will be open, of course, to the whole state, to Indians as well as whites. The Territorial legislature of Oklahoma and the councils of the Five Nations long ago decreed separate separate schools for negroes, and this separation is continued into the new regime by express language in the constitution.

In this connection the much-discussed Oklahoma constitution by solemn ordinance decrees that the North American Indian is of equal rank among the races with the white race. The fundamental law of the new state declares that the words "colored" or "colored race," or "negro" or "negro race" shall apply to all persons of African descent. It then adds. "The term "white race" shall include all oth er persons." Thus Indians are taken into the fold of the "dominant" race.

There are many negroes who are members of an Indian tribe who have no Indian blood whatever. There have been some Indian and negro marriages Indo-Africans may share in the wealth of the Indians, but they are, and have been for years, socially without the pale and separate schools have been maintained for them. The full-blood negroes who are members of the tribe are products of the civil war. Many of the Indians were slave owners. The Creeks had more negro slaves than there were Indians in the tribe. When these negroes became citizens of the Creek nation. When the India nlands were allotted they were permitted to hare the lands. The Federal government, however, gives them more latitude than it does the Indians, for they may sell their land at will, while the Indian is surrounded with restrictions.

Negro education is provided for in the constitution, which directs that the schools must be separate, but must be impartially maintained. The negro schools in Oklahoma are said to be excellent. They devote much attention to instruction in practical things. The common schools of Oklahoma are no better, of course, than the schools of other states. But the wonder is that they are as far advanced as they are, for this is the frontier. When Abraham Lincoln was a boy Kentucky was a much older state than Oklahoma is a habitation. His struggles for the rudiments of an education are familiar to every American boy and girl. After nearly 100 years the same race of people plants another colony to the westward. In the twinkling of an eye the pioneer is well established in his civilization as are the people whom he left in the east. That is the marvel of it all.

To Test Segregated Lands.

McAlester, I. T., Nov. 8.—A. W. Thompson of the government geological survey is here and as soon as some drills arrive will begin testing the coal formation of the segregated lands with a view to determining its value. The first hole will be bored nead Savanna, a few miles south of this city. The question of selling the surface and the coal of these segregated lands separately o rtogether is to be determined by the next congress. The Choctaw treaty provides they shall be sold together, but the secretary of the interior holds to the contrary.

Oktmah, I. T., Nov. 7.—Fire of unknown origin started in the feed house in the yard of William Turner, consuming building and contents, also burning the cement house of Carson Lumber company adjoining, and by the work of the bucket brigade a very disastrous fire was averted. Loss probably $1,200, partly covered by insurance.

Robbers Overlook Money.

Guthrie, Ok., Nov. 7.—The Farmers' State bank of Marshall, this county, was entered by five unknown men last midnight and robbed of $130 in one ar dtwo-dollar bills. Dynamite was used to crack the safe. The robbers overlooked the second safe, which contained $6,600. W. L. Helton, who was a delegate in the recent congressional convention, is president of the bank, and this morning had a committee of citizens count the remaining cash, showing the bank just $130 short. Deputy Sheriff Meyer P. Lewing and a posse of officers are in pursuit but thus far without success.

The trail showed three men on horse back and at least two more in a buggy or spring wagon. Evidently they have hidden in the cimarron hills.

Good-Bye "Coffin Nails."

The deadly cigarette will have to go and after next Saturday or as soon as the president signs the statehood proclamation it will be farewell to "coffin nails" in Oklahoma.

The liquor dealers in Oklahoma are closing out their wares and the cigarette dealers on this side may as well be doing the same thing. No cigarettes, cigarette papers or substitutes can be sold or even brought into the state for the purpose of selling or giving away after November 16, without going up against the law.

The enabling act and the constitution provide that Oklahoma laws shall immediatel ybecome operative over the entire state the moment statehood takes effect, and among these statutes is the anti-cigarette law, approved March 8, 1901. This law provides:

"That it shall be a misdemeanor for any person, firm or corporation to sell, offer to sell, or to bring into the territory for the purpose of selling, giving away or otherwise disposing of any cigarettes, cigarette papers or sub stitutes for the same; and each violation of any of the provisions of this act shall be a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not less than ten dollars, nor more than five hundred dollars."

"I'm going west where they live yet" declared a local tobacco dealer today, "if they put many more restrictions on a fellow's business. I think they out to give us notice before they close us up, however."

Milo Adams, one of the largest handlers of cigarettes in the city, said: "If it is against the law I guess we will have to stop selling cigarettes."—Muskogee Phoenix.

WILL DRAW HEAVY BACK PAY.

Oklahoma's Congressmen Will Receive Salary from March 4, 1907.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Shortly after the two senators from the new state of Oklahoma and the five new members of congress have been sworn in they will be presented with checks for their salary from the fourth of last March, at the rate of $7,500 a year. This will be in the nature of a fat little "pick up" for these statesmen as they will become congressmen only a month prior to the convening of the session. In the case of the two senators, who cannot be elected until late in November or early in December, their official careers will have been much shorter. The incident is the more interesting because of the fact that they will receive pay for several months as the representatives of a sovereign state, when neither the state itself existed nor had the office to which they were subsequently elected.

This is perfectly legal, for congress has control of its own expenditures and if either house witshes to put any of its members on an even footing with those who preceeded them its contingent fun dis for that purpose. In case of a vacancy in either house there may be a lapse of time before it is filled and the full salary as a rule is presented to, the newly elected member.

When former Senator Fred DuBois came to the senate as the first United States senator from Idaho March 4, 1891, he was paid salary accruing before his arrival. As it was voted to him Mr. DuBois accepted it, though he protested that he did not want the money.

When Ernest M. Pollard of Nebraska came to the house in December, 1905, to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Mr. Burkett to the senate, he having been chosen at a special election in the July previous, he was paid the full salary covering the period of the hiatus in the representation from the first Nebraska district. His constituency was informed of this and the newspapers made an awful hue and cry over it. Pollard tried to return the money but could not do it. It was a comfortable sum, amounting to $1,861.48 and Mr. Pollard in order to satisfy the newspapers making capital of the transaction, introduced a bill authorizing the treasurer of the United States to receive the money. It was referred to the committee on ways and means but nothing wa sever done with it.

How Different Races Bear Pain.

Moaning and groaning as if she were being tortured to death, a colored woman sat in the accident ward at Jefferson hospital. "Don't wind dat bandage so tight, doctor," she begged of an interne who was skillfully putting a bandage on her foot; "you'll stop de circulation, sure." Wondering what dreadful calamity had befallen the suffering woman, a visitor asked another doctor what was the matter with her. He said nothing but a slight cut on the bottom of her foot. "Colored people always make a great disturbance over any physical injury," he added, "but the Italians are the worst. The sight of a little wound seems to upset them entirely, and they come in here shrieking and crying, accompanied by anxious friends and relatives also shrieking and crying, over the slightest cut or burn. Americans and Germans seem to bear pain with the most fortitude, and in general women do better than men."—Philadelphia Record.

COTTON IN INDIA.

India and Egypt are the only countries, outside the United States, that produce sufficient cotton to be worthy of note. In 1906 India produced 3,708,000 bales and Egypt 1,400,000.

As to cotton production in India the government report has this to say:

"The method of cultivating cotton in India is very primitive as would be expected in a country where nearly everything is done by hand. Oxen are used for heavy labor, and plows, hoes and other agricultural implements are generally of the rudest types.

"Notwithstanding the increase in the Indian production, the amount available for expor is growing relatively smaller, owing to increased consumption in local mills which for the year ending June 30, 1907, is estimated at 1,616,0000 bales of 500 pounds each, compared with 936,800 bales in 1893, when the production was 2,060,000 bales. Of the total production shown in the table about 330,000 bales are consumed locally in the homes of the people, and do not enter commercial channels."

GOLD LADEN SHIPS ARRIVING

Millions of Yellow Metal Flowing into New York and Large Amounts Shipped into Interior to Alleviate Conditions.

New York, Nov. 8.—The stream of surplus gold pouring into New York has not been halted here to meet local demands, but is being allowed to flow through the financial arteries of the United States and relieve the needs of agriculture and industry.

Gold importers state that nearly all of the $21,000,000 which already has reached here will soon find its way to every quarter of the country. Nearly $12,000,000 was shipped to the interior this week.

Gold has been shipped from here to Chicago in such large amounts it is understood in local banking circles that the issuance of circulating bank script in Chicago possibly may not be necessary. Part of the $12,000,000 arriving on the Lusitania and part of the $25,000,000 yet to come will be expressed immediately to out of town banks.

Never in the history of New York finance, according to gold importers, has there been so much money engaged abroad by out-of town banks as at present. "There [illegible] no [illegible]," said a member of one of the large gold importing firms tonight, "that there will be a cessation of gold imports because of the increase in the discount rate of the Bank of England and Germany. This increase [illegible] not made for the purpose of stopping gold from coming to this country, as popularly supposed, but to strengthen their own position by drawing gold from other centers.

"There is a heavy outward movement of American commodities and [illegible] they are paid for we [illegible] payments in gold, and it cannot be denied. The gold that we are importing is coming in every form [illegible] though principally in American double eagles. I know that within a year the Russian imperial treasury [illegible] 000,000 in American double eagles [illegible] in its vaults, while the Bank of England has millions of dollars of American gold coin."

Figures compiled today by New York banks show that banking [illegible] throughout the United States have drawn nearly $12,000,000 from this city within the week. Of this sum about [illegible] was sent through the sub-treasury.

New York, Nov. 8.—The leading New York banks [illegible] themselves [illegible] to meet the demand of their country correspondents and depositors for currency. They declare that the [illegible] sions [illegible] are not [illegible] demands are [illegible] in every practical measure [illegible] the west and south. One of the large banks with several thousand correspondents has depleted its reserve by about a quarter during the last few weeks to supply currency where it is most needed, and has made large shipments to banks in San Antonio, Galveston, Memphis, Mobile, Atlanta and other Southern points.

The country banks have been allowed to draw down their balances to a point which affords in many cases hardly more than enough to meet the drafts sold in the ordinary course of business. They have brought paper for rediscount to their New York correspondents in large amounts and the principal difficulty of the New York banks has come from the demand for currency to be shipped against the balance created by these rediscounts.

As these rediscounts have been accommodations and have not brought a cent of currency to the discounting banks they do not feel that they should be called upon to supply currency in large amounts under such conditions.

It is not usual, except in special cases, to ship all that is asked, but about one half is usually shipped, the proportion varying according to the cash strength of the bank calling for coin or as the demand is for legitimate purposes. Special favor is shown to the small interior banks where there is no clearing house, because it is realized that they are not in a position to count upon co-operation and the use of clearing house certificates as in the case of communities having a number of strong institutions.

REPUBLICAN DISCORD GROWS

Defeated Applicants for Office Sore at "Rough Rider" Influence--U. S. Marshals Ordered to Fire Democratic Deputies--Frantz and Hainer for Seats in Congress.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 9.—Republican leaders returning last night from Washington, D. C., where they have been participating in the campaign for federal appointments, state emphatically that Governor Frank Frantz intends entering the race for congress in the First Oklahoma district next year against Bird S. McGuire of Pawnee, the only republican elected to congress from the new state.

Judge Bayard T. Hainer of Perry, one of the defeated candidates for federal judge, will move to Tulsa immediately and will enter the congressional race in the Third district.

Charles L. Hunter, who made the losing fight for the republicans, notwithstanding his appointment as clerk of the federal court, thinks he will [illegible] claiming to [illegible] with President [illegible] who [illegible] the clerkship. Hunter says it [illegible] president he would not accept it [illegible] his [illegible] chairman Hunter [illegible] political friends believe, however, the civil service commission will compel him to resign one of the two places.

President Roosevelt called both John E. Abernathy of Guthrie and Governor Porter of Ardmore on the carpet and told them to fire all democrats in their employ as deputy United States marshals, to contribute to the party campaign funds and to look to Chairman Hunter as their political adviser. Both Abernathy and Porter were criticised severely by the president for employing democrats.

Before the Indian Territory politicians left Washington an anti-Frantz-Hunter combination was formed with the declaration that henceforward the Rough Rider organization could get no help from that side of the state.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Gov. Frantz of Oklahoma says that he does not take much account of the kicking which the disappointed ones who sought appointments in Oklahoma are doing. "The man who cries because he has hurt his toe gets little sympathy," said the governor.

It develops that there is a great deal of soreness on the part of those whose friends were turned down for appointments. The president did not appoint a candidate who did not have the indorsement of Frantz and of Hunter. The Rough Rider influence in the persons of these two was all-powerful and threats are made of swift and terrible vengeance at the first opportunity. The opportunity will come when the republicans of Oklahoma go to choose delegates to the next republican national convention. It is openly stated that the state shall not send a Roosevelt delegation or one which will support an administration candidate.

Masonic Building at Ardmore.

Ardmore, I. T., Nov. [illegible].—Plans and specifications for a six-story modern brick and stone office building to be used by the Masonic fraternities of this city have been received. The new structure will be one of the most modern in the new state and will be equipped with an shafts whereby air currents may be changed every thirty minutes during the day if necessary. The ground floor will be used for stores, the next two for offices and the third and six for lodge purposes.

The Masons contemplate beginning work on the new building either this fall or early next spring.

District Judges to Meet.

Guthrie, Ok., Nov. 9.—A call has been issued for a meeting of the District Judges of Oklahoma in Guthrie on the first session day of the supreme court. At this meeting terms of the district courts will be agreed upon. Several weeks ago the Supreme court met here informally, and each of the Judges agreed to work out the terms of the lower courts in their districts. A special term of the district courts in all counties will probably be decided upon.

THE FARMER AND FINANCIAL AGITATION.

The wisdom and common sense evidenced by the farmer who diversifies his crops were perhaps never before so well demonstrated as at present says the Dallas News The extraordinary weather conditions that have prevailed during the present crop year, the effort being made by a large number of farmers throughout the South to hold their cotton for higher prices than those at present prevailing, and the exigencies precipitated by the recent more or less stressful financial situation have served to emphasize the independence of the farmer who uses prudence and good judgment in the diversification of his crops He is independent to a great extent of weather conditions, for the reason that if they are not such as are suitable to the growth of one of his crops they are suitable to another He is independent of conditions that would otherwise force him to sell his cotton at any price he can get, for the reason that he has produced almost everything he eats especially bread and meat, and doesn't need to sell his cotton in order to get money to buy it He is independent of financial stress for the reason that he is not in imperative need having produced, as all Southern farmers can all those things which are absolutely necessities to his existence.

If he has raised his meat he can keep the bale of cotton that it would be necessary to sell to pay for meat he would have to buy If he has raised plenty of corn he can keep the bale or two of cotton he would have had to sell to pay for corn If he has raised poultry and eggs, butter and honey he can hold the cotton that it would have been necessary for him to have sold in order to pay for clothing and incidental debts he would have owed and he not possessed the chickens cows and bees

In other words, the gospel of crop diversification as preached by The News for the last fifteen years is again demonstrated to be true Every year serves to accentuate its advantage, even its necessity to the farmer who wishes to be independent of financial perturbation or political agitation He can sit down under his own vine and fig tree cross his legs light his pipe an dtell politicians and financiers to go hang If there is any man under the canopy who is in a position to do this it is the farmer who grows those things which are most needful to the welfare of himself and family —the farmer who diversifies

Why should he be frightened because wheat goes up and flour is higher He has wheat to sell and flour of his own Why should he tear his hair in distress when he finds that great products have been advanced in price? He has hogs and yearlings to sell and meat in his smokehouse Why should he wail and gnash his teeth because the tariff and other things has caused the price of clothing to go higher" He has wool for sale

In the face of these facts it seems almost incredible that any farmer could be found who would still persist in following the old methods of the one-crop cotton farmer Raise cotton to be sure but do not hazard your financial success your children's education, and the contentment and happiness of yourself and family on cotton alone as much as to say "I stake my all on cotton If cotton goes up I'll go up if cotton goes down I will too

The climate of the Southern States is too well adapted to the production of an almost limitless variety of crops its soils are too fertile and its farmers too sensible to be longer chained to the chariot wheels of King Cotton or King Anybody Else Diversify

FIRST IN FORTY-FOUR YEARS.

The president has announced that on November 16 he will sign the Oklahoma constitution and proclaim the state Oklahoma being the forty-sixth in the order of admission Referring to this assurance a writer in the New York World says Mr Roosevelt does not indorse the very radical constitution of Oklahoma but his duty under the act of congress is to admit the new state when satisfied that it has provided a government republican in form He will hand the state over to democratic officials already chosen Political and sectional considerations have always ruled in the admission of state At first southern and northern states were admitted in pairs or alternately five of each joining the union up to 1821 In that year Missouri's admission marked the movement westward The longest halt in state making ended when Arkansas was admitted fifteen years later Michigan followed Then Florida and Texas were offset by Iowa and Wisconsin Wisconsin in 1848 brought the total up to eight northern and nine southern states admitted and Texas had the right to divide into four states a right which will probably never be claimed With 1848 began the admission of Pacific states California was safely another southern not northern Minnesota and Oregon gave the admitted northern states a majority of one Kansas admitted January 29 1861 had been claimed by the slavery and anti-slavery men and the latter had won West Virginia was admitted as a war measure in 1863 Since then no state has been admitted south of the line defined by the Missouri compromise Oklahoma will be the first in forty-four years"

To Make the Best Remedy Right at Home at Little Cost.

To make up enough of the 'Dandelion treatment,' which is claimed to be relieving nearly every sufferer who uses it for backache, kidney complaint, sore, weak bladder and rheumatism, get from any good prescription pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon and three ounces Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime

Those who have tried it claim that it acts gently but thoroughly on the kidneys, relieving backache and bladder trouble and urinary difficulties almost instantly Many cases of rheumatism are known to have been relieved within a few days, the pain and swelling diminishing with each dose

A well-known local druggist, who is in a position to know asserts that this prescription, wherever it becomes known, always ruins the sale of the numerous patent medicine rheumatism cures, kidney cures, etc It is a recipe which the majority of patent medicine manufacturers and even certain physicians dislike to see published Few cases indeed which will fail to fully yield to its peculiarly soothing and healing influence Being composed of common everyday ingredients which can be had from any druggist it makes up a good honest and harmless remedy and at nominal cost

Christmas Shopping.

Do not delay Christmas shopping until the last few days others will do that and if you do you are very apt to find yourself very uncomfortably one of a crowd

In giving presents do not go beyond your means thereby giving the gift an appearance of barter and exchange Many persons prefer a pretty useless gift to a pretty useful one Just something to show that you hold your friend in remembrance is best Only a selfish person will misunderstand

Try to avoid the appearance of shop unless you are quite sure you understand your friend's taste and the need of the moment This is not always easy to do As an instance a lady who writes a great deal but does all her work with a typewriter using her pen only for her signature showed me a box full of penwipers of all kinds sizes and costs and a great number of blotters, pads many of them very elaborate affairs Another friend has something over a dozen fountain pens while another has a drawer full of paper cutters and pencil trays no one of them while costing considerable is suited to her needs being chosen by persons who do not know enough about a writing woman's work to discriminate in the matter

Many things being left until the belated shopping are bought in desperation and neither the giver nor the receiver is satisfied with them If you are hurrie dor worried or do not know exactly what you want to give or what would suit your friend, there is always one sure refuge, and that is the pretty picture card or the postal with your good wishes, inscribed thereon and better still a pleasantly worded letter, sending your cordial good wishes and assurances of continued regard

For those who are far from you the good homey letter is the best of all And it costs so little, compared to its value to the receiver —Ex

Today's Cotton Market.

Unusual sluggishness characterized Saturday's market Spot cotton prices remained unchanged New York 10 80 New Orleans 10⅝ Futures advanced from 2 to 5 points

New Orleans, Nov 9—Since the shipment of cash in sufficient quantity to transact the cotton business through the payment of actual currency for each bale purchased cannot be available without draining both Europe and American reserves and since the exchange markets are probably destined to remain on a clearing house basis for some time to come, the speculative short cannot see just where the sweeping drain in options which he has been counting on, is to come from Consequently the bearish attitude of the rings yesterday night, with good show of logic, be interpreted to mean that somebody is working for a temporary decline on which to cover troublesome contracts, in any event actual cotton shorts, who have recently witnessed a potential strengthening of spot basis at a time when financial depression appealed most strongly to the constitutional bear, will hardly be found in the ranks of the seller until the spot situation shall have undergone a radical change The demand for spot cotton at the ports is now apparently greater than the supply Interior merchants have been free sellers and the stocks are relatively small Farmers, as a rule, do not care for checks and script on which they cannot draw checks Therefore, farmers are not selling cotton cotton Under such conditions depletion of port stocks and of supplies held by interior merchants is only a question of a little time unless general relief comes

EDUCATION IN NEW STATE.

By Frederic J. Haskin in Dallas News

Oklahoma City, Ok., Nov. 6.—Oklahoma believes in schools. It comes into the union offering educational advantages to its boys and girls which are surpassed by but few of the older states. Its educational system is already developed to a high degree and plans have been made and money provided to further increase the efficiency of the free institutions, from kindergarten to university. Taxes do not alarm the Oklahoman when the revenues are to be expended for schools for he is a liberal spender. The little town of Perkins, for instance, holds a school meeting each July. Every taxpayer and patron of the schools, man or woman, may vote. In the last twelve years that district has always voted a school tax of 20 mills on the $1. This is the highest levy permitted by the Territorial laws. In all these twelve years there has never been one vote against the proposition to go the limit. The new constitution limits the school tax levy to 17 mills, and many votes were cast against statehood on that account. As the rate of assessment will be raised under statehood, however, the school revenues will not suffer.

The federal government gave the Territory of Oklahoma two sections in each township, or one-twentieth of all the land, for school purposes. It has also given a great deal of land for the support of the public educational institutions which rank above the High school, so that more than one-sixteenth of the old Territory of Oklahoma is held for school purposes. This amounts to over 3,000,000 acres. If it were sold now it would produce about $30,000,000. In the Indian Territory portion of the new state the government could not in justice to the Indians, reserve the lands for school purposes. Congress, however, appropriated $5,000,000 in cash in lieu of the school lands and the new state will start out with that much cash school fund. The Oklahoma common school lands are leased for farming and grazing, and now produce about $600,000 a year. Under statehood these lands may be sold, the resident lessor having the preference. The million acres held for the colleges have not yet been leased and they will add materially to the annual income.

The university of Oklahoma at Norman has more than 800 students this year, while the three state normal schools have 2,500, the University Preparatory school has over 400 and the two Agricultural and Mechanical Colleges, one for whites and one for negroes have another thousand. Collegiate institutions not under Territorial control have nearly 2,000 students. All of this is exclusive of the Indian schools in both section of the new state.

The City high school at Oklahoma City has 750 pupils. Two years ago it had less than 500. The building which it could not fill five years ago is now so crowded that two school days are allowed for each one—a day and half the pupils attend one day, one half the others. ... A new high school building to cost a quarter of a million dollars is on the cards and will be built next year.

Woe unto the teacher of geography in that High school if he knows not his business! For in the classes every state in the union east of the Mississippi is represented, and only ten states in the union are absent. The teachers of the public schools of the city come from twenty-eight different states, not to mention two European countries. Even the kindergartens are traveled and they demand cosmopolitan advantages.

"The Oldest Inhabitant."

The oldest native born inhabitant of Oklahoma City, Miss Bessie Land. She is 18 and pretty and is planning for the best effects in white gowns for a day next June, when she will be graduated. The "oldest inhabitant" is the label we stick under a mental picture of a bent old man with long white beard. Their mental pictures are different here. Miss Land was born in Oklahoma City just a few weeks after the first grand rush. But it is rather novel to hear the oldest inhabitants of a flourishing city say "Our town is the best in the world but we will have a hundred thousand population by the time I am 21 years old."

The new constitution requires that the elements of agriculture, horticulture, stock feeding and domestic science shall be taught in the common schools. Free kindergartens are to be required in all towns of more than 2,500 population. The high schools already have extensive courses in commercial education and an Oklahoma High school graduate knows how to write short hand, manipulate a typewriter and keep books. Modern languages are required in the courses of most high schools and the tendency everywhere is to accentuate the practical in education.

At Guthrie there is a model county High school which will be copied by other counties throughout the state. Of its 100 students, more than 200 are county boys and girls. Indeed, this school gives as much attention to the country pupils as it possibly can. Its head master, Snowden Parlette, came from Kansas by way of Harvard. He is a man with ideas and knows how to work. He has obtained light work for more than fifty country boys and girls that will enable them to pay their board while they are in school. From this High school a pupil may enter any of the western and central universities on certificate. In equipment and scope this High school will compare favorably with any Eastern school in a county of its size, while in attendance there are few Eastern counties which can show so good a record in proportion. Township high schools, such as are maintained in states like Indiana, are, of course, a long way in the future, but Oklahoma will see to it that the boy and the girl in the country have equal educational advantages with the town-bred youths.

These county high schools have all the "trimmings" that small colleges can boast of—athletics of all kinds, school and class publications which appear monthly, "annuals" just like a real college and al lthe rest, except Greek letter fraternities. There was a start toward their introduction in the country and town high schools, but democratic Oklahoma frowned on the caste feature of these secret selective organizations and they were abolished so far as official recognition is concerned.

In Oklahoma City the public schools take the children at 5 years old and keep them to thirteen years, one year in the kindergarten and then through the usual twelve grades. Every building except the High school is new and of the most modern sanitary construction. The school system is the pride of every Oklahoman. It was built up during the last few years of great prosperity and Superintendent Taylor, a Kentucky mountaineer by the way, is looked upon as one of the greatest public benefactors in the city. It is interesting to note that his two predecessors were also from that same mountain region, a section which is not generally credited with producing great educators although famous for organizers. Ed Vaught, a Tennessee mountaineer, and I. N. Holcomb, a Kentucky mountaineer, organized this public school system.

Schools Then and Now.

In Indian Territory the peculiar tribal governments have prevented the advancement of the school system to the point attained by the Territory of Oklahoma. Until two years ago there were no free schools for white children except in the incorporated towns. Then congress gave money to increase the tribal school capacity and to provide for the attendance of children of non-citizens of the five nations. The tribes have maintained good district schools and seminaries for the Indian, as well as the negroes. Each of the five nations, Cherokee, Creek, Choctaw, Chickasaw and Seminole, has had a system of district day schools and of central boarding schools, which will be adapted under statehood to the system of district schools and county High schools. The Indian mission schools have been a noble factor for good for more than sixty years, and they will continue under the new regime without interruption.

In the incorporated town of Indian Territory the schools have been organized along progressive lines and are as good as those of Oklahoma. Under statehood the university, normal and technical colleges and preparatory schools will be open, of course, to the whole state to Indians as well as whites. The Territorial legislature of Oklahoma and the councils of the Five Nations long ago decreed separate separate schools for negroes, and this separation is continued into the new regime by express language in the constitution.

In this connection the much-discussed Oklahoma constitution by solemn ordinance decrees that the North American Indian is of equal rank among the races with the white race. The fundamental law of the new state declares that the words "colored" or "colored race," or "negro" or "negro race" shall apply to all persons of African descent. It then adds: "The term 'white race' shall include all other persons." Thus Indians are taken into the fold of the "command" race.

There are many negroes who are members of an Indian tribe who have no Indian blood whatever. There have been some Indian and negro marriages. Indo-Africans may share in the wealth of the Indians but they are, and have been for years, socially without the pale and separate schools have been maintained for them. The full-blood negroes who are members of the tribe are products of the civil war. Many of the Indians were slave owners. The Creeks had more negro slaves than there were Indians in the tribe. When these negroes became citizens of the Creek nation. When the India nlands were allotted they were permitted to hare the lands. The Federal government, however, gives them more latitude than it does the Indians, for they may sell their land at will, while the Indian is surrounded with restrictions.

Negro education is provided for in the constitution, which directs that the schools must be separate, but must be impartially maintained. The negro schools in Oklahoma are said to be excellent. They devote much attention to instruction in practical things. "The common schools of Oklahoma are no better, of course, than the schools of other states. But the wonder is that they are as far advanced as they are, for this is the frontier. When Abraham Lincoln was a boy Kentucky was a much older state than Oklahoma is a habitation. His struggles for the rudiments of an education are familiar to every American boy and girl. After nearly 100 years the same race of people plants another colony to the westward. In the twinkling of an eye the pioneer is well established in his civilization as are the people whom he left in the east. That is the marvel of it all.

To Test Segregated Lands.

McAlester, I. T., Nov. 8.—A. W. Thompson of the government geological survey is here and as soon as some drills arrive will begin testing the coal formation of the segregated lands with a view to determining its value. The first hole will be bored near Savanna, a few miles south of this city. The question of selling the surface and the coal of these segregated lands separately or together is to be determined by the next congress. The Choctaw treaty provides they shall be sold together, but the secretary of the interior holds to the contrary.

Robbers Overlook Money.

Guthrie, Ok., Nov. 7.—The Farmers' State bank of Marshall, this county, was entered by five unknown men last midnight and robbed of $130 in one and two dollar bills. Dynamite was used to crack the safe. The robbers overlooked the second safe, which contained $6,600. W. L. Helton, who was a delegate in the recent congressional convention, is president of the bank and this morning had a committee of citizens count the remaining cash, showing the bank just $130 short. Deputy Sheriff Meyer P. Lewing and a posse of others are in pursuit but thus far without success.

The trail showed three men on horse back and at least two more in a buggy or spring wagon. Evidently they have hidden in the cimarron hills.

Good-Bye "Coffin Nails."

The deadly cigarette will have to go and after next Saturday or as soon as the president signs the statehood proclamation it will be farewell to "coffin nails" in Oklahoma.

The liquor dealers in Oklahoma are closing out their wares and the cigarette dealers on this side may as well be doing the same thing. No cigarettes, cigarette papers or substitutes can be sold or even brought into the state for the purpose of selling or giving away after November 16 without going up against the law.

The enabling act and the constitution provide that Oklahoma laws shall immediatel ybecome operative over the entire state the moment statehood takes effect, and among these statutes is the anti-cigarette law, approved March 8, 1901. This law provides:

"That it shall be a misdemeanor for any person, firm or corporation to sell, offer to sell, or to bring into the territory for the purpose of selling, giving away or otherwise disposing of any cigarettes, cigarette papers or substitutes for the same, and each violation of any of the provisions of this act shall be a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not less than ten dollars, nor more than five hundred dollars."

"I'm going west where they live yet" declared a local tobacco dealer today. "If they put many more restrictions on a fellow's business I think they out to give us notice before they close us up, however."

Milo Adams, one of the largest handlers of cigarettes in the city, said: "If it is against the law I guess we will have to stop selling cigarettes."—Muskogee Phoenix.

WILL DRAW HEAVY BACK PAY.

Oklahoma's Congressmen Will Receive Salary from March 4, 1907.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Shortly after the two senators from the new state of Oklahoma and the five new members of congress have been sworn in they will be presented with checks for their salary from the fourth of last March, at the rate of $7,500 a year. This will be in the nature of a fat little "pick up" for these statesmen as they will become congressmen only a month prior to the convening of the session. In the case of the two senators, who cannot be elected until late in November or early in December, their official careers will have been much shorter. The incident is the more interesting because of the fact that they will receive pay for several months as the representatives of a sovereign state, when neither the state itself existed nor had the office to which they were subsequently elected.

This is perfectly legal, for congress has control of its own expenditures and if either house witshes to put any of its members on an even footing with those who preceeded them its contingent fun dis for that purpose. In case of a vacancy in either house there may be a lapse of time before it is filled and the full salary as a rule is presented to the newly elected member.

When former Senator Fred DuBois came to the senate as the first United States senator from Idaho March 4, 1891, he was paid salary accruing before his arrival. As it was voted to him Mr. DuBois accepted it, though he protested that he did not want the money.

When Ernest M. Pollard of Nebraska came to the house in December 1905, to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Mr. Burkett to the senate, he having been chosen at a special election in the July previous, he was paid the full salary covering the period of the hiatus in the representation from the first Nebraska district. His constituency was informed of this and the newspapers made an awful hue and cry over it. Pollard tried to return the money but could not do it. It was a comfortable sum amounting to $1,881.48 and Mr. Pollard in order to satisfy the newspapers making capital of the transaction introduced a bill authorizing the treasurer of the United States to receive the money. It was referred to the committee on ways and means but nothing wa sever done with it.

How Different Races Bear Pain.

Moaning and groaning as if she were being tortured to death a colored woman sat in the accident ward at Jefferson hospital. "Don't wind dat bandage so tight, doctor," she begged of an interne who was skillfully putting a bandage on her foot. "You'll stop de circulation sure." Wondering what dreadful calamity had befallen the suffering woman, a visitor asked another doctor what was the matter with her. He said nothing but a slight cut on the bottom of her foot. "Colored people always make a great disturbance over any physical injury," he added, "but the Italians are the worst. The sight of a little wound seems to upset them entirely, and they come in here shrieking and crying accompanied by anxious friends and relatives also shrieking and crying over the slightest cut or burn. Americans and Germans seem to bear pain with the most fortitude, and in general women do better than men."—Philadelphia Record.

COTTON IN INDIA.

India and Egypt are the only countries, outside the United States, that produce sufficient cotton to be worthy of note. In 1906 India produced 3,708,000 bales and Egypt 1,400,000.

As to cotton production in India the government report has this to say:

"The method of cultivating cotton in India is very primitive as would be expected in a country where nearly everything is done by hand. Oxen are used for heavy labor, and plows, hoes and other agricultural implements are generally of the rudest types.

"Notwithstanding the increase in the Indian production, the amount available for export is growing relatively smaller, owing to increased consumption in local mills which for the year ending June 30, 1907, is estimated at 1,616,0000 bales of 500 pounds each, compared with 936,800 bales in 1893, when the production was 2,060,000 bales. Of the total production shown in the table about 430,000 bales are consumed locally in the homes of the people, and do not enter commercial channels."

GOLD LADEN SHIPS ARRIVING

Millions of Yellow Metal Flowing into New York and Large Amounts Shipped into Interior to Alleviate Conditions.

New York, Nov. 8.—The stream of surplus gold pouring into New York has not been halted here to meet local demands, but is being allowed to flow through the financial arteries of the United States and relieve the needs of agriculture and industry.

Gold importers state that nearly all of the $21,000,000 which already has reached here will soon find its way to every quarter of the country. Nearly $12,000,000 was shipped to the interior this week.

Gold has been shipped from here to Chicago in such large amounts, it is understood in local banking circles, that the issuance of circulating bank script in Chicago possibly may not be necessary. Part of the $12,000,000 arriving on the Lusitania and part of the $25,000,000 yet to come will be expressed immediately to out of town banks.

Never in the history of New York finance, according to gold importers, has there been so much money engaged abroad by out-of-town banks as at present. "There [illegible]," said a member of one of the large gold importing firms tonight, "that there will be a cessation of gold imports because of the increase in the discount rate of the Bank of England and Germany. This increase [illegible] not made for the purpose of stopping gold from coming to this country, as popularly supposed, but to strengthen their own position by drawing gold from other centers.

"There is a heavy outward movement of American commodities and [illegible] they are paid for we can [illegible] payments in gold and [illegible] demand. The gold that we [illegible] is coming in every form [illegible] though principally in American [illegible] eagles. I know that within a year the Russian imperial treasury [illegible] $[illegible],000,000 in American double eagles [illegible] stored in its vaults, while the Bank of England has millions of dollars [illegible] American gold coin."

Figures compiled today by New York banks show that banks [illegible] throughout the United States have drawn nearly $12,000,000 from this city within the week. Of this sum about $[illegible] was sent through the sub-treasury.

New York, Nov. 8.—The leading New York banks [illegible] meeting [illegible] the demand [illegible] country correspondents and depositors for currency. They declare that [illegible] from several west[illegible] sources that they are not [illegible] demands are unfounded [illegible] the country [illegible] every practical measure [illegible] the west and south. One of the large banks with several thousand correspondents has depleted its reserve by about a quarter during the last few weeks to supply currency where it is most needed and has made large shipments to banks in San Antonio, Galveston, Memphis, Mobile, Atlanta and other southern points.

The country banks have been allowed to draw down their balances to a point which affords in many cases hardly more than enough to meet the drafts sold in the ordinary course of business. They have brought paper for rediscount to their New York correspondents in large amounts and the principal difficulty of the New York banks has come from the demand for currency to be shipped against the balance created by these rediscounts.

As these rediscounts have been accommodations and have not brought a cent of currency to the discounting banks they do not feel that they should be called upon to supply currency in large amounts under such conditions.

It is not usual, except in special cases, to ship all that is asked, but about one half is usually shipped, the proportion varying according to the cash strength of the bank calling for coin or as the demand is for legitimate purposes. Special favor is shown to the small and country banks where there is no clearing house, because it is realized that they are not in a position to count upon co-operation and the use of clearing house certificates as in the case of communities having a number of strong institutions.

Defeated Applicants for Office Sore at "Rough Rider" Influence--U. S. Marshals Ordered to Fire Democratic Deputies--Frantz and Hainer for Seats in Congress.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 9.—Republican leaders returning last night from Washington, D. C., where they have been participating in the campaign for federal appointments, state emphatically that Governor Frank Frantz intends entering the race for congress in the First Oklahoma district next year against Bird S. McGuire of Pawnee, the only republican elected to congress from the new state.

Judge Bayard T. Hainer of Perry, one of the defeated candidates for federal judge, will move to Tulsa immediately and will enter the congressional race in the Third district.

Charles L. Hunter, who made the losing fight for the republicans, notwithstanding his appointment as clerk of the federal court, thinks he will [illegible] chairman [illegible] to [illegible] with President [illegible] the clerkship Hunter says he [illegible] president [illegible] Hunter [illegible] political [illegible] however the civil service commission will compel him to resign one of the two places.

President Roosevelt called both John R. Abernathy of Guthrie and Grosvenor Porter of Ardmore on the carpet and told them to [illegible] all democrats in their employ as deputy United States marshals to contribute to the party campaign funds and to look to Chairman [illegible] Hunter as their political adviser. Both Abernathy and Porter were criticised severely by the president for employing democrats.

Before the Indian Territory politicians left Washington an anti Frantz-Hunter combination was formed with the declaration that henceforward the Rough Rider organization could get no help from that side of the state.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Gov. Frantz of Oklahoma says that he does not take much account of the kicking which the disappointed ones who sought appointments in Oklahoma are doing. "The man who cries because he has hurt his toe gets little sympathy," said the governor.

It develops that there is a great deal of soreness on the part of those whose friends were turned down for appointments. The president did not appoint a candidate who did not have the indorsement of Frantz and of Hunter. The Rough Rider influence in the persons of these two was all-powerful and threats are made of swift and terrible vengeance at the first opportunity. The opportunity will come when the republicans of Oklahoma go to choose delegates to the next republican national convention. It is openly stated that the state shall not send a Roosevelt delegation or one which will support an administration candidate.

Masonic Building at Ardmore.

Ardmore, I. T., Nov. 8.—Plans and specifications for a six story modern brick and stone office building to be used by the Masonic fraternities of this city have been received. The new structure will be one of the most modern in the new state and will be equipped with an shafts whereby all currents may be changed every thirty minutes during the day if necessary. The ground floor will be used for stores, the next two for offices and the fifth and six for lodge purposes.

The Masons contemplate beginning work on the new building either in this fall or early next spring.

District Judges to Meet.

Guthrie, Ok., Nov. 9.—A call has been issued for a meeting of the District Judges of Oklahoma in Guthrie on the first session day of the supreme court. At this meeting terms of the district courts will be agreed upon. Several weeks ago the Supreme court met here informally, and each of the Judges agreed to work out the terms of the lower courts in their districts. A special term of the district courts in all counties will probably be decided upon.

THE FARMER AND FINANCIAL AGITATION.

The wisdom and common sense evidenced by the farmer who diversifies his crops were perhaps never before so well demonstrated as at present says the Dallas News The extraordinary weather conditions that have prevailed during the present crop year, the effort being made by a large number of farmers throughout the South to hold their cotton for higher prices than those at present prevailing, and the exigencies precipitated by the recent more or less stressful financial situation have served to emphasize the independence of the farmer who uses prudence and good judgment in the diversification of his crops He is independent to a great extent of weather conditions for the reason that if they are not such as are suitable to the growth of one of his crops they are suitable to another He is independent of conditions that would otherwise force him to sell his cotton at any price he can get for the reason that he has produced almost everything he eats especially bread and meat and doesn t need to sell his cotton in order to get money to buy it He is independent of financial stress for the reason that he is not in imperative need having produced, as all Southern farmers can all those things which are absolutely necessities to his existence.

If he has raised his meat he can keep the bale of cotton that it would be necessary to sell to pay for meat he would have to buy If he has raised plenty of corn he can keep the bale or two of cotton he would have had to sell to pay for corn If he has raised poultry and eggs, butter and honey he can hold the cotton that it would have been necessary for him to have sold in order to pay for clothing and incidental debts he would have owed had he not possessed the chickens cows and bees

In other words the gospel of crop diversification as preached by The News for the last fifteen years is again demonstrated to be true Every year serves to accentuate its advantage even its necessity to the farmer who wishes to be independent of financial perturbation or political agitation He can sit down under his own vine and fig tree cross his legs light his pipe and tell politicians and financiers to go hang If there is any man under the canopy who is in a position to do this it is the farmer who grows those things which are most needful to the welfare of himself and family—the farmer who diversifies

Why should he [illegible] frighten [illegible] wheat goes up and flour is higher He has wheat to sell and flour of his own Why should he tear his hair in distress when he reads that [illegible] products have been advanced in price? He has hogs and [illegible] sell and meat in his smokehouse Why should he wail and gnash his teeth because the tariff and other things have caused the price of clothing to go higher? He has wool for sale

In the face of these facts it seems almost incredible that any farmer could be found who would still persist in following the old methods of the one-crop cotton farmer Raise cotton to be sure but do not hazard your financial success your children s education and the contentment and happiness of yourself and family on cotton alone as much as to say I stake my all on cotton If cotton goes up I ll go up if cotton goes down I will too

The climate of the Southern States is too well adapted to the production of an almost limitless variety of crops its soils are too fertile and its farmers too sensible to be longer chained to the chariot wheels of King Cotton or King Anybody Else Diversify

The president has announced that on November 16 he will sign the Oklahoma constitution and proclaim the state Oklahoma being the forty sixth in the order of admission Referring to this assurance a writer in the New York World says Mr Roosevelt does not indorse the very radical constitution of Oklahoma but his duty under the act of congress is to admit the new state when satisfied that it has provided a government republican in form He will hand the state over to democratic officials already chosen Political and sectional considerations have always ruled in the admission of state At first southern and northern states were admitted in pairs or alternately [illegible] each joining the union up to 1821 In that year Missouri's admission marked the movement westward The longest [illegible] in state making ended when Arkansas was admitted [illegible] Michigan followed Then Florida and Texas [illegible] Iowa and Wisconsin Wisconsin in 1848 brought the total up to eight northern and [illegible] southern states admitted and [illegible] had the right to divide into four states a right which will probably [illegible] With 1850 began the admission of a [illegible] state California was [illegible] southern nor northern Minnesota and Oregon gave the admitted north [illegible] majority of one Kansas admitted January 29 1861 had been claimed by the slavery and anti-slavery men and the latter had won West Virginia was admitted as a war measure in 1863 Since then no state has been admitted south of the line defined by the Missouri compromise Oklahoma will be the first in forty-four years

To Make the Best Remedy Right at Home at Little Cost.

To make up enough of the Dandelion treatment which is claimed to be relieving nearly every sufferer who uses it for backache kidney complaint sore weak bladder and rheumatism get from any good prescription pharmacy one half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion one ounce Compound Kargon and three ounces Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime

Those who have tried it claim that it acts gently but thoroughly on the kidneys, relieving backache and bladder trouble and urinary difficulties almost instantly Many cases of rheumatism are known to have been relieved within a few days the pain and swelling diminishing with each dose

A well-known local druggist who is in a position to know asserts that this prescription wherever it becomes known, always ruins the sale of the numerous patent medicine rheumatism cures kidney cures etc It is a recipe which the majority of patent medicine manufacturers and even certain physicians dislike to see published Few cases indeed which will fail to fully yield to its peculiarly soothing and healing influence Being composed of common everyday ingredients which can be had from any druggist it makes up a good honest and harmless remedy and at nominal cost

Trial Catarrh treatments are being mailed out free on request by Dr Shoop Racine Wis These tests are proving to the people—without a penny s cost—the great value of this scientific prescription known to druggists everywhere as Dr Shoop s Catarrh Remedy Sold by G M Ramsey

Christmas Shopping.

Do not delay Christmas shopping until the last few days others will do that and if you do you are very apt to find yourself very uncomfortably one of a crowd

In giving presents do not go beyond your means thereby giving the gift in appearance of barter and exchange Many persons prefer a pretty useless gift to a pretty useful one Just something to show that you hold your friend in remembrance is best Only a selfish person will misunderstand

Try to avoid [illegible] shop unless you are quite sure you understand your friend's taste and the need of the moment This is not always easy to do As an instance a lady who writes a great deal but does all her work with a typewriter using her pen only for her signature showed me a box full of penwipers of all kinds sizes and costs and enough number of blotting pads many of them very elaborate affairs Another friend has something over a dozen fountain pens while another has a drawer full of paper cutters and pencil trays none of them while costing considerable is suited to her needs being chosen by persons who do not know enough about a writing woman s work to discriminate in the matter

Many things being left until a belated shopping are bought in desperation and neither the giver nor the receiver is satisfied with them If you are hurried or worried or do not know exactly what you want to give or what would suit your friend there is always one sure refuge and that is the pretty picture card or the postal with your good wishes inscribed thereon and better still a pleasantly worded letter, sending your cordial good wishes and assurances of continued regard

For those who are far from you the good homey letter is the best of all And it costs so little compared to its value to the receiver —Ex

Norwalk, Conn , Nov 9 —John Harding to whom P T Barnum offered $800 a week to exhibit himself, is dead here Harding s pride would never permit him to place himself in a show and so while he might have amassed a considerable fortune he died poor

Harding was 18 years old but he was no bigger than a normal 2-year-old baby His arms and legs were guarded and twisted and from the moment of his birth they were in one swing motion He never walked he never even creeped

Nevertheless he had a fine brain and a wonderful memory He taught himself to read and write and read good books constantly

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" means sure defeat for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, but taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break, or head off these early colds. That's surely better. That's why they are called Preventics. Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures. No Quinine, no physic, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Promptness may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child, if there is feverishness, night or day. Herein probably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. Sold in 5c boxes for the pocket, also in 25c boxes of 48 Preventics. Insist on your druggist giving you

Today's Cotton Market.

Unusual sluggishness characterized Saturday's market Spot cotton prices remained unchanged New York 10 80 New Orleans 10⅝ Futures advanced from 2 to 5 points

New Orleans, Nov 9—Since the shipment of cash in sufficient quantity to transact the cotton business through the payment of actual currency for each bale purchased cannot be available without draining both Europe and American reserves and since the exchange markets are probably destined to remain on a clearing house basis for some time to come, the speculative short cannot see just where the sweeping drain in options which he has been counting on, is to come from Consequently the bearish attitude of the rings yesterday night, with good show of logic, be interpreted to mean that somebody is working for a temporary decline on which to cover troublesome contracts, in any event actual cotton shorts, who have recently witnessed a potential strengthening of spot basis at a time when financial depression appealed most strongly to the constitutional bear, will hardly be found in the ranks of the seller until the spot situation shall have undergone a radical change The demand for spot cotton at the ports is now apparently greater than the supply Interior merchants have been free sellers and the stocks are relatively small Farmers, as a rule, do not care for checks and script on which they cannot draw checks Therefore, farmers are not selling cotton cotton Under such conditions depletion of port stocks and of supplies held by interior merchants is only a question of a little time unless general relief comes

EDUCATION IN NEW STATE.

By Frederic J. Haskin in Dallas News

Oklahoma City, Ok., Nov. 6.—Oklahoma believes in schools. It comes into the union offering educational advantages to its boys and girls which are surpassed by but few of the older states. Its educational system is already developed to a high degree and plans have been made and money provided to further increase the efficiency of the free institutions, from kindergarten to university. Taxes do not alarm the Oklahoman when the revenues are to be expended for schools for he is a liberal spender. The little town of Perkins, for instance holds a school meeting each July. Every taxpayer and patron of the schools, man or woman, may vote. In the last twelve years that district has always voted a school tax of 20 mills on the $1. This is the highest levy permitted by the Territorial laws. In all these twelve years there has never been one vote against the proposition to go the limit. The new constitution limits the school tax levy to 17 mills, and many votes were cast against statehood on that account. As the rate of assessment will be raised under statehood, however, the school revenues will not suffer.

The federal government gave the Territory of Oklahoma two sections in each township, or one-twentieth of all the land, for school purposes. It has also given a great deal of land for the support of the public educational institutions which rank above the High school, so that more than one-sixteenth of the old Territory of Oklahoma is held for school purposes. This amounts to over 3,000,000 acres. If it were sold now it would produce about $30,000,000. In the Indian Territory portion of the new state the government could not in justice to the Indians, reserve the lands for school purposes. Congress, however, appropriated $5,000,000 in cash in lieu of the school lands and the new state will start out with that much cash school fund. The Oklahoma common school lands are leased for farming and grazing, and now produce about $600,000 a year. Under statehood these lands may be sold the resident lessor having the preference. The million acres held for the colleges have not yet been leased and they will add materially to the annual income.

The university of Oklahoma at Norman has more than 800 students this year, while the three state normal schools have 2,500, the University Preparatory school has over 400 and the two Agricultural and Mechanical Colleges, one for whites and one for negroes have another thousand. Collegiate institutions not under Territorial control have nearly 2,000 students. All of this is exclusive of the Indian schools in both section of the new state.

The City high school at Oklahoma City has 750 pupils. Two years ago it had less than 500. The building which it could not fill two years ago is now so crowded that two school days are allowed to each ... day and half the pupils attend in the ... noon and the others in the ... A new high school building to cost a quarter of a million dollars is on the cards and will be built next year.

Woe unto the teacher of geography in that high school if he knows not his business! For in the classes every state in the union east of the Mississippi is represented, and only ten states in the union are absent. The teachers of the public schools of the city come from twenty-eight different states not to mention two European countries. Even the kindergartens are traveled and they demand cosmopolitan advantages.

"The Oldest Inhabitant."

The oldest native born inhabitant of Oklahoma City, Miss Bessie Land. She is 18 and pretty and is planning for the best effects in white gowns for a day next June, when she will be graduated. The "oldest inhabitant" is the label we stick under a mental picture of a bent old man withlong white beard. Their mental pictures are different here. Miss Land was born in Oklahoma City just a few weeks after the first grand rush. But it is rather novel to hear the oldest inhabitants of a flourishing city say "Our town is the best in the world but we will have a hundred thousand population by the time I am 21 years old."

The new constitution requires that the elements of agriculture, horticulture, stock feeding and domestic science shall be taught in the common schools. Free kindergartens are to be required in all towns of more than 2,500 population. The high schools already have extensive courses in commercial education and an Oklahoma High school graduate knows how to write short hand, manipulate a typewriter and keep books. Modern languages are required in the courses of most high schools and the tendency everywhere is to accentuate the practical in education.

At Guthrie there is a model county High school which will be copied by other counties throughout the state. Of its 100 students, more than 200 are country boys and girls. Indeed, this school gives as much attention to the country pupils as it possibly can. Its head master, Snowden Parlette, came from Kansas by way of Harvard. He is a man with ideas and knows how to work. He has obtained light work for more than fifty country boys and girls that will enable them to pay their board while they are in school. From this High school a pupil may enter any of the western and central universities on certificate. In equipment and scope this High school will compare favorably with any Eastern school in a county of its size, while in attendance there are few Eastern counties which can show so good a record in proportion. Township high schools, such as are maintained in states like Indiana are, of course, a long way i nthe future, but Oklahoma will see to it that the boy and the girl in the country have equal educational advantages with the town-bred youths.

These county high schools have all the "trimmings" that small colleges can boast of—athletics of all kinds, school and class publications which appear monthly, "annuals" just like a real college and al lthe rest, except Greek letter fraternities. There was a start toward their introduction in the country and town high schools, but democratic Oklahoma frowned on the caste feature of these secret selective organizations and they were abolished so far as offieial recognition is concerned.

In Oklahoma City the public schools take the children at5 years old and keep them to rthirteen years, one year in the kindergarten and then through the usual twelve grades. Every building except the High school is new and of the most modern sanitary construction. The school system is the pride of every Oklahoman. It was built up during the last few years of great prosperity and Superintendent Taylor a Kentucky mountaineer by the way, is looked upon as one of the greatest public benefactors in the city. It is interesting to note that his two predecessors were also from that same mountain region, a section which is not generally credited with producing great educators although famous for organizers. Ed Vaught a Tennessee mountaineer, and I. N. Holcomb a Kentucky mountaineer, organized this public school system.

Schools Then and Now.

In Indian Territory the peculiar tribal governments have prevented the advancement of the school system to the point attained by the Territory of Oklahoma. Until two years ago there were no free schools for white children except in the incorporated towns. Then congress gave money to increase the tribal school capacity and to provide for the attendance of children of non-citizens of the five nations. The tribes have maintained good district schools and seminaries for the Indians as well as the negroes. Each of the five nations Cherokee, Creek, Choctaw, Chickasaw and Seminole has had a system of district day schools and of central boarding schools which will be adapted under statehood to the system of district schools and county High schools. The Indian mission schools have been a potent factor for good for more than sixty years, and they will continue under the new regime without interruption.

In the incorporated towns of Indian Territory the schools have been organized along progressive lines and are as good as those of Oklahoma. Under statehood the university, normal and technical colleges and preparatory schools will be open, of course, to the whole state to Indians as well as whites. The Territorial legislature of Oklahoma and the councils of the Five Nations long ago decreed separate separate schools for negroes, and this separation is continued into the new regime by express language in the constitution.

In this connection the much-discussed Oklahoma constitution by solemn ordinance decrees that the North American Indian is of equal rank among the races with the white race. The fundamental law of the new state declares that the words "colored" or "colored race," or "negro" or "negro race" shall apply to all persons of African descent. It then adds: "The term 'white race' shall include all other persons." Thus Indians are taken into the fold of the "dominant" race.

There are many negroes who are members of an Indian tribe who have no Indian blood whatever. There have been some Indian and negro marriages. Indo-Africans may share in the wealth of the Indians, but they are, and have been for years, socially without the pale and separate schools have been maintained for them. The full-blood negroes who are members of the tribe are products of the civil war. Many of the Indians were slave owners. The Creeks had more negro slaves than there were Indians in the tribe. When these negroes became citizens of the Creek nation. When the India nlands were allotted they were permitted to hare the lands. The Federal government, however, gives them more latitude than it does the Indians, for they may sell their land at will, while the Indian is surrounded with restrictions.

Negro education is provided for in the constitution, which directs that the schools must be separate, but must be impartially maintained. The negro schools in Oklahoma are said to be excellent. They devote much attention to instruction in practical things. The common schools of Oklahoma are no better, of course, than the schools of other states. But the wonder is that they are as far advanced as they are, for this is the frontier. When Abraham Lincoln was a boy Kentucky was a much older state than Oklahoma is a habitation. His struggles for the rudiments of an education are familiar to every American boy and girl. After nearly 100 years the same race of people plants another colony to the westward. In the twinkling of an eye the pioneer is well established in his civilization as are the people whom he left in the east. That is the marvel of it all.

To Test Segregated Lands.

McAlester, I. T., Nov. 8.—A. W. Thompson of the government geological survey is here and as soon as some drills arrive will begin testing the coal formation of the segregated lands with a view to determining its value. The first hole will be bored near Savanna, a few miles south of this city. The question of selling the surface and the coal of these segregated lands separately o rtogether is to be determined by the next congress. The Choctaw treaty provides they shall be sold together, but the secretary of the interior holds to the contrary.

Robbers Overlook Money.

Guthrie, Ok., Nov. 7.—The Farmers' State bank of Marshall, this county, was entered by five unknown men last midnight and robbed of $130 in one and two dollar bills. Dynamite was used to crack the safe. The robbers overlooked the second safe, which contained $6,600. W. L. Helton, who was a delegate in the recent congressional convention, is president of the bank and this morning had a committee of citizens count the remaining cash, showing the bank just $130 short. Deputy Sheriff Meyer P. Lewing and a posse of others are in pursuit but thus far without success.

The trail showed three men on horse back and at least two more in a buggy or spring wagon. Evidently they have hidden in the cimarron hills.

Good-Bye "Coffin Nails."

The deadly cigarette will have to go and after next Saturday or as soon as the president signs the statehood proclamation it will be farewell to "coffin nails" in Oklahoma.

The liquor dealers in Oklahoma are closing out their wares and the cigarette dealers on this side may as well be doing the same thing. No cigarettes, cigarette papers or substitutes can be sold or even brought into the state for the purpose of selling or giving away after November 16 without going up against the law.

The enabling act and the constitution provide that Oklahoma laws shall immediatel ybecome operative over the entire state the moment statehood takes effect, and among these statutes is the anti-cigarette law, approved March 8, 1901. This law provides.

"That it shall be a misdemeanor for any person, firm or corporation to sell, offer to sell, or to bring into the territory for the purpose of selling, giving away or otherwise disposing of any cigarettes, cigarette papers or substitutes for the same, and each violation of any of the provisions of this act shall be a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not less than ten dollars, nor more than five hundred dollars."

"I'm going west where they live yet" declared a local tobacco dealer today, "if they put many more restrictions on a fellow's business I think they out to give us notice before they close us up, however."

Milo Adams, one of the largest handlers of cigarettes in the city, said: "If it is against the law I guess we will have to stop selling cigarettes."—Muskogee Phoenix.

WILL DRAW HEAVY BACK PAY.

Oklahoma's Congressmen Will Receive Salary from March 4, 1907.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Shortly after the two senators from the new state of Oklahoma and the five new members of congress have been sworn in they will be presented with checks for their salary from the fourth of last March, at the rate of $7,500 a year. This will be in the nature of a fat little "pick up" for these statesmen as they will become congressmen only a month prior to the convening of the session. In the case of the two senators, who cannot be elected until late in November or early in December, their official careers will have been much shorter. The incident is the more interesting because of the fact that they will receive pay for several months as the representatives of a sovereign state, when neither the state itself existed nor had the office to which they were subsequently elected.

This is perfectly legal, for congress has control of its own expenditures and if either house witshes to put any of its members on an even footing with those who preceded them its contingent fun dis for that purpose. In case of a vacancy in either house there may be a lapse of time before it is filled and the full salary as a rule is presented to the newly elected member.

When former Senator Fred DuBois came to the senate as the first United States senator from Idaho March 4, 1891, he was paid salary accruing before his arrival. As it was voted to him Mr. DuBois accepted it, though he protested that he did not want the money.

When Ernest M. Pollard of Nebraska came to the house in December 1905, to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Mr. Burkett to the senate he having been chosen at a special election in the July previous, he was paid the full salary covering the period of the hiatus in the representation from the first Nebraska district. His constituency was informed of this and the newspapers made an awful hue and cry over it. Pollard tried to return the money but could not do it. It was a comfortable sum amounting to $1,861.18 and Mr. Pollard in order to satisfy the newspapers making capital of the transaction introduced a bill authorizing the treasurer of the United States to receive the money. It was referred to the committee on ways and means, but nothing wa sever done with it.

How Different Races Bear Pain.

Moaning and groaning as if she were being tortured to death a colored woman sat in the accident ward at Jefferson hospital. "Don't wind dat bandage so tight, doctor," she begged of an interne who was skilfully putting a bandage on her foot. "You'll stop de circulation sure." Wondering what dreadful calamity had befallen the suffering woman, a visitor asked another doctor what was the matter with her. He said nothing but a slight cut on the bottom of her foot. "Colored people always make a great disturbance over any physical injury," he added, "but the Italians are the worst. The sight of a little wound seems to upset them entirely, and they come in here shrieking and crying accompanied by anxious friends and relatives also shrieking and crying over the slightest cut or burn. Americans and Germans seem to bear pain with the most fortitude, and in general women do better than men."—Philadelphia Record.

COTTON IN INDIA.

India and Egypt are the only countries, outside the United States that produce sufficient cotton to be worthy of note. In 1906 India produced 3,708,000 bales and Egypt 1,400,000.

As to cotton production in India the government report has this to say:

"The method of cultivating cotton in India is very primitive as would be expected in a country where nearly everything is done by hand. Oxen are used for heavy labor, and plows, hoes and other agricultural implements are generally of the rudest types.

"Notwithstanding the increase in the Indian production, the amount available for export is growing relatively smaller, owing to increased consumption in local mills which for the year ending June 30, 1907, is estimated at 1,616,0000 bales of 500 pounds each, compared with 936,800 bales in 1893, when the production was 2,060,000 bales. Of the total production shown in the table about 450,000 bales are consumed locally in the homes of the people, and do not enter commercial channels."
